

DEBBIE POOLE

VOCALIST
SONGWRITER

Debbie Poole was born and raised in Baltimore, Maryland on the east side of town. She grew up singing in the church choir as well as the school choir.

With a background in music and comedy she has been able to utilize those skills learned into something special when she is on stage. Audiences love her and usually end up comparing her to one of her musical idols, Phyllis Hyman, as well as Anita Baker. Her sound is not in any way an imitation but just a vocal gift that is seasoned and reminiscent of those great artists. Her voice, and her style, are her own.

Because of her distinct sound, she has worked with many great artists including Roy Ayers, Michael Henderson, Kim Waters and Vaughan Mason, to name a few.

Of her numerous awards, the one she prizes the most is the one she received for winning the Billy Holiday Vocal Contest.

Debbie was the featured vocalist on Kim Waters' "Sax Appeal" CD. She has her own CD "In the Midst of Love" of which she wrote 8 songs. She has two music videos, the most recent being "Cried My Last Tear" and the previous "Was it Something I Said?" She is currently in the studio working on her next CD with a Grammy-nominated producer.
